COLUMBUS, O., October 20, 1859. THE GRAND LODGE OF MASONS OF OHIO.

.....OCTOBER 21

There are three hundred and fifty Masons, members of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, now in session in this city. They are a select grade of men as to capacity and character, and their proceedings are conducted with great ability. The Grand Lodge of Ohio is respected in the various State jurisdictions for her position in the Masonic family. The able reports of her Standing Committees are distinguished for force and terseness. The present prosperous condition of the Order in this State is represented in the elevated tone of the sentiments manifested in the discussions of this Masonic General Assembly, as in the purity of private life inculcated in the several Lodges.

The proceedings of yesterday were most of it of details not of general interest. The proposed amendment of the Constitution, by which the Ancient Constitution now attached to it, recognized and adopted as the fundamental laws, rules and regulations for the government of Masons, having during the past year been submitted to the vote of the constituent Subordinates, did not receive a majority vote of the Lodges, and was not adopted.

PROFITLESS PROJECTS.

There generally is a failure in such bodies to realize profit from money investments their true policy being to have but a slight excess of money on hand, thereby preventing scheming. Years ago this grand body bought real estate in Lancaster, and expended money and incurred debts in making an impotent attempt to erect thereon a Grand Masonic Hall-now, the ground even is an incumbrance.

The Grand Master, and Dr. BROCK, of Salem, and VISGIL E. SHAW, of Lancaster, were appointed a committee to sell or dispose of the same. Quite a large sum was louned to a Masonic Building Association at Chillicothe, with the expectation that the Grand Lodge would for the four thousand dollars except the fine hall in the ancient metropolis-but the Grand Lodge, not designing or desiring to locate, has had to take legal steps to foreclose the mortgage on the building.

In Iowa we learn the Grand Lodge has involved itself in a heavy debt, having become responsible for purchases for Libraries.

There is pending a project to engage the Grand Lodge of Ohio in support of a Widows' and Orphans' Home in this State; also, to enlist by commendation of the enterprise to the subordinates, of a proposed monument to the late distinguished Arctic navigator, the American Mason, Dr. ELISHA KENT KANE.

The Grand Lodge of Ohio has manifested non-soncurrence in the project line lately, declining in decided terms last year to encourage the purchase of Mount Vernon, finally to become the property of the State of Virginia; also, to be engulfed in the Masonic Library purchase.

GRAND MASONIC LODGE REPRESENTATIVE SYSTEM. The Representative system of Sister Grand Lodge organizations was for the first time introduced yesterday, in Ohio. Some ten years, it is said, Past Grand Master KREIDER, of Ohio's authority, bearing date August 8, 1849, was given for the sounding the mystic gavel in that jurisdiction, while, at the present time its Grand Lodge is composed of thirty-two chartered Lodges and over one thousand members. Past Grand Master W. B.THRALL, of Columbus, was received yesterday with appropriate honor in being introduced as Commissioner Representative of the Grand Lodge of Minnesota, near the Grand Lodge of Ohio, which is an appropriate selection. Past Grand Master Bun-JAMIN F. SMITH has heretofore been chosen as Ohio's Representative near the Grand Lodge of Minnesota.

This question of interest was disposed of yesterday by the Grand Lodge of Ohio: "Is the subordinate lodge, of which a brother dies a member, liable for the funeral expenses incurred by a sister lodge—the brother having died in destitute circumstances." It was deelared that no law or rule of the Grand Lodge requires the payment of expenses so incurred. COLUMBUS POSTWASTES.

There was a rumor in this place last night that messages of evil omen to the official existence of THOMAS MILLER, Postmaster of this city, had been received in Columbus. The talk is that THOMAS SPARROW is to be reinstated. He was in office on the advent to power of the present National Administration. but displaced to provide for THOMAS MILLER, who after due time was displaced as an Anti-Lecompton, and succeeded by SAMURL MEDARY, since Governor of Kansas, a former occupant of the place. MILLER was restored and has continued until this present time, when it would appear that another restoration is to occur. This history is quite curious; three Postmasters, after serving one period, obtain the coveted office after an intervening time. Mr. SPARROW has been recently elected County Commissioner, by a very large majority, in opposition to the regular ticket, as an independent Democrat.

The Grand Lodge of Masons.

Over two hundred supordinate lodges of Ohio were represented at the Grand Lodge, just opened on Tuesday, at Columbus. Horace M. Stokes, Grand Master, set forth at length, in a business address, interesting matters for the craft, but particularly a report of his official relations with the craft during the recess.

Nine new lodges have been granted dispenestion during the year.

The term of service of Reuben R. Brown, of Chardon, as District Lecturer, having expired on the 20th of January last, he was reappointed for three years. A vacancy exists at present, occasioned by the expiration of a term of service of Alexander H. Necombe, not yet filled. On the 24th of May last, Joseph Hildreth having resigned the office of District Lecturer, Alexander McIlvain, of Mansfield, was appointed. This Grand Body is composed of substantial citizens. The session thereof will be continued until and including

P. T. Barnum, Esq., is doing the people of East Bridgeport a great service in planting shade trees on their streets. He has advertised for one thousand sugar maples for this purpose. Can't some one of our public spirited citizens, or our august and far-seeing Council, do something in the same line for Cincinnati:

The stockholders of the Covington and Lexington Railroad Company are moving with a view to contest the sale of the property lately made at Lexington. The Court will hold a session at Lexington on the 29th inst, to confirm the sale.

Ticknor & Fields paid $10,000 for the Atlantic Monthly. Francis H. Underwood, the former editor of the magazine, has been nominated for Clerk of the Criminal Courts in Boston.

Later advices from the Amoor River have been received by an arrival at San Francisco. The Russians are reported as showing the greatest favor to Americans and their enterprises. A small steamer, capable of ascending the river for a great distance, had been landed at Nicolauski by an American company.

The number of insurance companies in New York and Brooklyn is one hundred and twentysix, of which ninety-seven are fire, eleven life, and eighteen marine. Thompson's Bank Note Reporter alludes to the rapid increase of these institutions, and predicts that the next loss to the stockholding portion of the community will be with the fire insurance stockholders.

A Washington correspondent says that rumor is already supplying the place of Mr. Mason, at Paris. Secretary Floyd will go to Paris, and Mr. Faulkner will come into the Cabinet. This is the talk.

We perceive by the correspondence of the New York Spirit of the Times that the establishment of a National Race Course is agitated among the admirers of that sport. It is stated that Washington City is invariably selected as the great central neutral ground near which it should be located.

Two men named Filkins and Hall recently clinched in a fight, in a ball-room, in Grand Rapids, Michigan, and in a souttle which followed fell to the ground from a three-story window. Both are so badly hurt that neither, it is thought, can possibly recover. Mr. Green West, of Amherst, Maine, had his leg broken below the knee several years ago. On Monday last, as he was passing behind his oxen, one of them kicked him on the spot of the old fracture. He fainted immediately, and, although receiving no other injury, died in a few minutes. Clement Marsh, Esq., a son of Joseph W. Marsh, of Greenland, N. H., has expended $10,000 in paying the debts of his father, who died fifteen years ago. The Portsmouth Journal says this is "a shining example of magnanimity and filial respect."

A meeting of Germans was held in New York on Sunday evening, for the purpose of giving expression to a sentiment in favor of the observance of the Sabbath. There were about fifteen hundred present. Addresses were delivered by the Rev. Dr. Adams, in English, and the Rev. J. D. Hullan and Dr. Phillip Schaff, in the vernacular, and a series of resolutions were adopted favoring a quiet observance of the day.

Who is Brown, the Leader!

SERTCH OF CAPTAIN JOHN BROWN, THE LEADER

OF THE INSUREECTION. Captain John Brown emigrated to Kansas rom Central New York, in the fall of 1855, and settled in the township of Ossawattomie He was accompanied by seven sons, the youngest being old enough to earn his liveli-The birthplace of Brown is not positively known to the writer, but report has it that he was born in Kentucky. At the time of his death he was about sixty years of age. He was about medium hight, slim, muscular, and possessing an iron constitution. He had and possessing an iron constitution. He had blue eyes, sharp features and long gray hair, wearing a full beard. In December, 1855, during the "Shannon War," Brown first made his appearance among the free State men at Lawrence. His entrance into the place at once attracted the attention of the people toward him. He brought a wagon load of cavalry sabres, and was accompanied by twelve men, seven of whom were his own sons. He first exhibited his qualities at the time the free State and pro-slavery parties, under the lead of Governor Robinson on one side, and Governor Shannon on the other, met to make a treaty of peace. After Governor Robinson had stated to the people who were gathered around the hotel the terms of the peace, Brown took the stand, uninvited, and opposed the terms of the treaty. He was in favor of ignoring all treaties, and such leading men as Robin-son, Lane and Lowry, and proceeding at once against the border ruffian invaders, drive them from the soil or hang them if taken them from the soil or hang them if taken. General Lowry, who was Chairman of the Committee of Safety, and also commander of the free State troops, ordered Brown under

One of his sons, who was elected to the Legislature in February, 1856, was seized and taken from Ossawattomie to Lecompton in chains, a distance of thirty miles. His feet and hands were chained together with a large heavy chain, the size of that used upon ox teams. He was compelled to walk the whole distance beneath a burning sun. The irons vore the flesh from his ankles; he was attacked with the brain fever, was neglected, and died in two or three days. He was a companion of lovernor Robinson, Jenkins, (since shot by Lane, and some eight or ten others. Anothe on of Captain Brown was shot at Ossawatomia by a marauding party from Missouri. After the death of his first son, occasioned by the tortures and fatigue of his forced march, Brown swore vengeance upon the pro-slavery party, and it was frequently observed by the most prudent of the free-State men that he was evidently insane on the subject. He was always considered by them as a dangerous man, was never taken into their councils, and neverconsulted by them with reference either to their policy or movements.

The destruction of the Free State Hotel and presses at Lawrence, in May, 1856, incited him anew to action, and he organized a small company, composed chiefly of men who had been robbed, or whose relatives had been murdered by the pro-slavery party, and at the head of this band armed with Sharp's rifles, Bowie-knives and Colt's revolvers, he scoured Southern Kansas, and the name of "Old Brown" became a terror to all who opposed his will in that region. While he was thus maurauding, five pro-slavery men were taken from their cabins at Pottawattomie Creek, in the night time, and shot dead. The pro-slavery party charged this deed upon Old Brown, while the free State party asserted that they could prove him In Lawrence, forty miles distant, when it happened, and that the horrid deed was perpended. trated by "Buford's Georgia Ruffians," posing that the victims were free Statemen The news of this massacre reached Westport, Missouri, the place of rendezvous of the "border ruffians," the same evening that the Kansas Commission sent out by the United States House of Representatives arrived at that place. The excitement was intense, and was induced almost as much by the appearance of the Com-mission, as by the news of the massacre. The 'ruffians' swore vengeance upon the members and officers of the Commission, declaring that their blood should recompense for the slaughter at Pottawattomie Creek, and but for the intercession of Mr. Oliver, the pro-slavery member of the Commission, and others, it was believed that the Commission would have been at-H. Clay Pate organized a band of men in the H. Clay Pate organized a band of mon in the streets of Westport, Mo., with the avowed purpose of entering the Territory and capturing "Old Brown." He raised about thirty men, and went into the Territory about wilight one evening, and was surprised at sunrise the next morning by "Old Brown," who was in command of nine men, armed as stated

Pate sent a flag of truce to Brown, who advanced some rods in front of his company and ordered the flag-bearer to remain with him, and sent one of his own men to inform Pate to come himself. Pate obeyed, when Brown ordered him to lay down his arms. Pate re-fused to give the order to his men, when Brown, drawing a revolver, informed him that he must give the order or be shot on the spot. Pate immediately surrendered up himself and men, and they were disarmed and marched into a ravine near by, and kept until liberated and sent back to Missouri, by Col. Sumner, a few days subsequently, who also ordered "Old Brown" to disband and go home. The latter agreed to do so if the Colonel would also agree to protect the settlers in that region of the Ter-ritory. This was the delebrated "Battle of Black Jack Point," made famous by "H. C. P.," Kansas correspondent of the St. Louis Republican, who was the heroic commander of

Captain Brown was not much heard from again until the notorious Captain Hamilton sede his incursions into Southern Kansas from Missouri in 1858, when he raised another company, and, with Captain Montgomery, drove Hamilton and his companions back to Missouri, and, marching his men into that State, took possession of one of the villages, shot one or two men, and liberated several slaves. This course of Brown was repudiated by Govern : Robinson and the leaders of the free State party, in and out of Kansas, which caused Brown to publish a letter explaining his position, in which he assumed the entire responsibility of his acts, and relieved the Free State men from any share therein. This letter was called the "Two Parallels," on ac-count of the peculiar distinction made by the Captain Brown was fanatical on the subject of auti-slavery, and seemed to have the idea that he was specially deputed by the Al-mighty to liberate slaves and kill slaveholders. It was always conceded to him that he was a conscientious man, very modest in his demeanor, apparently inoffensive until the subject of slavery was introduced, when he would exhibit a feeling of indignation unparalleled. After matters subsided in Kanas, Brown intimated to some of his antislavery friends that he contemplated organizing an insurrection among the slaves in Kentucky and Tennessee.

This fact becoming known to some of the leading anti-slavery men of the country, they refused him means with which to go on, and March 5, 1859.—"Wyandot" Ledge, Mc-Cutchenville, Wyandot County. The remaining six elephants and the whole paraphernalis of the concern will be spent a portion of the last summer in visiting different Northern cities, and was tendered sums of money, with the understanding that he wished to secure a little farm upon which to settle in his old age. It is supposed that he employed this money thus obtained to hire the farm near Harper's Ferry, which he used as a rendezvous for the insurrectionists, and near which he so recently paid the last debt of nature.—N. ALSO, THE FOLLOWING TESTIMONIALS: "The substitution of the rotary movement of the "hock" for the reciprocating motion of the shuttle is the latest grand improvement on the Sewing Machine, and it is that which now gives Wheeler & Wilson's its decided advantage over all other machines. Moreover, for economy of power, case of configuration of the state of the state use."—The Ladies Repositors.

"My little daughter, of nine years, takes our machine (Wheeler & Wilson's) apart, cliest and puts it in place, easily and readily adjusts its parts, and performs with it all ordinary work. She can make her own dresses, including hemming, gathering and setting in the sleeves. Four months use in my family

"REV. CHAS. B. BOYNTON." "We use the Wheeler & Wilson Sawing Machine, and can say in regard to it that it is without a rival. No other machine exceeds it in its adaptation to all purposes of domestic use."—Scientific American. "We have personally examined the various machines before the public, with an anxious desire to place before our readers reliable information. At the result of such examination, we unhestatingly recommend Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machines as the machine for family use."—WESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.
